

Employee Award of Excellence Angela Price

Presented by City Administrator John Taylor

Angela joined the Taylorsville family two years ago. Two months after her start date Angela became the most senior member of the Planning staff, inheriting the lead planning role for many difficult and high-profile projects. Angela also took over several responsibilities with the City's Community Development Block Grant program. Not only did she not wither from the pressure and responsibility of her situation, she thrived and accepted the challenge with a positive attitude and ever-present smile and sense of humor.

In August 2018, Angela accepted a promotion to Senior Planner, officially taking over many supervisory responsibilities pertaining to the day to day operation of the planning department. This past year, she represented Taylorsville as she began work with the Utah Chapter of the American Planning Association as a legislative liaison. In that capacity, she follows and analyzes proposed legislation that potentially impacts land use management across the state.

Angela is dependable, focused, passionate, proactive and loyal. We are happy to present her with the Employee Award of Excellence.
